Abstract

Pakistan is a country where women are half in population, but women have less opportunity to have empowerment regarding decision making. Women remain under male domination, and various social, cultural and economic disparities. In Pakistan, they are not empowered. Women’s involvement in domestic decision-making has recognized for family development. This study was conducted to analyses the women empowerment at social, educational and political level. The objectives were to discern the status of women empowerment in political organizations, to recommend the status of women empowerment, to highlight empowerment of women in educational fields and to investigate women’s role in decision making at social level.

Research question were, what is women empowerment status with respect to decision making in politics, how to empower women in decision making at social level, how decision making of empowered women influences on the educational institutes and how the women of our society be empowered? Mixed method approach was used to collect the data, survey questionnaire, and interview and document analysis. Sample of the study was 110 working and 110 non-working women, 30 political women. (N=250).
The major findings tell that women’s decision-making in urban area is almost equal in household matters. In rural areas, women have a predominant role of husbands and other family members. The result shows that Pakistani women have no right in decision making at different levels. They cannot get their rights. Women should be empowered through rights of education, health, better living standard, security, jobs, skills, decision making authority, and respect.

Key words: Pakistan, Women empowerment, Decision making, social educational and political empowerment, political organizations, Society, Male Dominancv, Family Development, Proper Education and Role of Media & Rural Areas.

Introduction
In each general public, family can be produced with the assistance of male and female. Both assume significant parts in family issues. Also, both can buckle down for the support of kids, and other family matters. Both are the solid mainstays of a family, so both ought to bring choices with shared understanding in regards to household and socio-political undertakings.

Man and women are two important characters of human life. Adam was not complete without Eve. Both were life partners. There are different schools of thoughts; some believe that men are superior while others believe that women are equal to men. Nevertheless, they should have equal rights, equal opportunities, equal significance, equal benefits and equal share of responsibilities. Men and women are different on biological, social and on an emotional ground. Women are absent from a position of power, policy and decision making.

Man and women are two vital characters of human life. Adam was not finished without Eve. Both were life accomplices. There are distinctive schools of musings; some trust that men are unrivalled while others trust that ladies are equivalent to men. In any case, they ought to have measure up to rights, parallel open doors, rise to importance, level with advantages and equivalent share of obligations. Men and ladies are diverse on natural, social and on a passionate ground. Ladies are truant from a place of energy, approach and basic leadership.

Gender orientation parts can be characterized and it fluctuates in various social, social and chronicled settings. They change among various social orders, culture, classes, age and diverse period ever. Gender particular part and duties are regularly adapted by family unit structure, access to assets, and particular effect of the worldwide economy. Men and women react differently in a similar circumstance due to organic characteristics and because of their socio-.culture role.

A good example of this can be, in family men are provided with the role of decision maker and women take up the family and child care roles. Male has more power in making decision financially, legally and socially in our society. Modern life can be seen, in which taking decision, respecting each other’s views, expressing opinions are crucial. The society defined gender roles are changing with the social change. The role of men and women are influenced by a variety of factors, these factors vary with the region, religion, culture, and climate, historically believes, ideologies and experiences across the globe.

A lot of attention has been given to ‘Women empowerment’ not only in developed countries, but also in developing countries. New technological advancement, globalization, advancement of media cannot neglect the significance of women empowerment, but still the work is unsatisfactory. The women are subordinate in society, have limited representation in politics, even though, they are half the population of the world. And other financial injustice to them has been apparent in our society. The united nation (UN) has emphasized on advancement of women. Decision making in Pakistan is a male dominant act.
Women are largely neglected in economic, social, educational fields, although some progress is apparent. 28% women are present in labor force in Pakistan. As compared to other countries the ratio would be 42% in Bangladesh, 32% in India and 33% in South Asia. Female literacy rate in Pakistan is 25 %. (Shahnaz, L., & Kizilbash, 2002)

The effort of government about women’s rights which were regarded legal, economic, political and social was not neglected. Women rights committee 1976 presented detail report about women’s situation in Pakistan. In 1997 women’s division was set up within cabinet secretariat. The urban women of Pakistan have lots of opportunities as compared to poor women in rural areas (Hafeez, 1981)

In our society women are far away from decision making in every level of life. In our society most of our women are not enjoying their basic rights in decision making, there are the women who are not even aware of these rights. Since the development, educational and socio-political, of a state depends on mutual role of men and women, ignorance to their rights slows down the course of progress. This study was going to conduct to analyses the women empowerment status in Quetta, Pakistan. The result of this study will help to develop a comprehensive perspective of empowered women influence upon society of Pakistan. Women’s role is focused on its effect and implication on Pakistan’s society. Empowering women is the key of development and in economic race. This study will help us to understand the importance of women for the betterment of state; The result of this study will also support the policy makers to consider the role of women in the economic development of Pakistan; it will also help the women to identify their value and perform different social, political and educational activities with confidence and take initiatives in decision making.

In the Constitution of Pakistan 1973, Article 25 clearly says, —All citizens are equal before the law and are entitled to equal protection before the law: there shall be no discrimination on the basis of sex alone. There are lots of issues in Pakistan like, illiteracy, poverty, instability in governance. These problems generate trust deficit among the people. And result is remained deprived. Women should be empowered in political, social and educational level.

Literature Review
Empowerment
According to Bukhari, S. M. H., & Asim, Empowerment means to increase spiritual, political, educational, gender, economic power of individual and communities (Bukhari & Asim, 2013) Rowlands describes Empowerment is perceived differently in different context. In literature empowerment is shaped in education, social work and feminist’s development organization (Rowlands, 1995)

O’Neil, T., & Domingo says that the word empowerment has different meanings in dissimilar socio-cultural and political contexts and does not explain easily into all languages. The word empowerment has different denotations that vary from context to context on account of Socio-political grounds. An assessment of local terms related with empowerment around the world always leads to active discussion. These terms contain self-strength, control, self-power, self-belief, own choice, life of self-esteem in accordance with one’s values. One should be capable of fighting for their rights and independence. While making decision they hold complete autonomy.

Leadership
O’Neil, T., & Domingo also says that Generally Leadership is one’s capabilities weather it is individual or collective to mobilize people and resources (economic, political and others) to a particular end (O’Neil & Domingo, 2015). Leadership is the ability to influence the idea and behavior of others. Leadership is practical skill, an ability of individual or organization to lead /guide other individuals or organizations (Chemers, 1997)

Women Empowerment

These researches of Shoaib (2012) highlighted the issues of women. There are countries that fall into the category of Third and Fourth World i.e. Africa, Southern Asia and Latin America. On one hand, these states are already struggling in Socio-Political affairs in international pool. On the other hand, their gender inequality compounded the issues of poverty and poor economy on account of women’s lack of participation in education, health and other legal matters.

The women in rural areas are severely victimized in many aspects, domestically and socially. For the betterment of women in these areas, respective policies and women development programs are supposed to be revised and redesigned. On financial grounds there are countless levels of gender inequalities effecting women. Gender discrimination results poor health and psychological complex for women. The part of empowering women and achieving gender equality in the sustainable development of Ethiopia has been talked about in this clause. Political sphere reserved for humans only. Women’s rights are not protected. If women are empowered and gender equality is achieved then women can act their role in economic, social, political, areas properly. This report proposes to empower women and employ all the potentials of the state to bring close to evolution (Bayeh, 2016) The research papers on Woman Employment magnified a socio-economic and demographic aspect that shows women empowerment can reduce poverty. Furthermore, the research paper explained that lower the women empowerment, higher the poverty rate in state.

Research paper on Women’ autonomy in Decision making for health care in south Asia, brought out the fact that most of the decisions regarding health care made without women’s participation. The utmost necessary participation of women in this regard can only be increased by education and self-awareness. Report proves that women who are educated or employed are much better decision makers as compared to uneducated rural ladies. Acharya et al did a study on Women autonomy in household decisions, in Nepal. The research explored the position women hold in household matters. Their power of decision making regarding health and other domestic affairs mainly depend on their age, employment and number of children. 47.1% married women take decisions about health matters. (Shoaib et al. 2012)
An Analytical Study

Women are the most important part of our society but still they don’t get their rights. Adult females can be endowed with their rights of education, health, security, jobs, skills, decision making authority, better living standard, and esteem. The finding of this research paper is that adult males want their dominancy upon women. Men and women should play collectively for the prosperity of the company. Women must raise a voice for their rights. Empowering women are too much important for the growth of the economic system. Sohail, M. (2014)

Women Empowerment in South Asia

Bukhari, & Asim tells that South Asian women are very much miserable; the most suffered county is Afghanistan. (Bukhari & Asim, 2013)

Women Empowerment at Global Level

United nation has recognized the rights of women. There is a lot of discrimination on the basis of gender, for example limited opportunities in education, politics and economics, as daughter, mother, wives, etc. They are caught in life’s unequal treatment. (Sapru, 1989) Women are half of the world, but their lives are half as privileged as men’s. It is men’s world and all laws are made by men but now women have won the rights of higher education and economic independence. (Chaudhry, 1987)

'Gender equality ‘and 'women's empowerment ‘was mobilized by feminists in the 1980s and 1990s.and women got rights. Their efforts can be declared as a success. (Cornwall & Rivas, 2015) Ruth Lister has depicted in second version that citizenship is equivalent for both men and women. This script depicts that how youngsters in Britain see citizenship and their own moves as citizens (Lister, 2003).
Women Empowerment at Regional Level
Women status differs from state to state. There are two different sources of change. The first is policies which increase the accessibilities of opportunities. The second is the fashion which affects the social style of women. Historical and culture values maintain social institution. In the period of 1857 war, women position was to rediscover the identification and freedom. Sir Syed Ahmed gave light to women for modern education. Less-educated and more home bounded women participated in political affairs. After the First World War, Muslim women were driven to the political struggle under Bi Amma, the mother of Ali’s brother. It was recognized that role of women is important for political uplift. So, meetings were organized by All India Muslim League. The first association of Muslim ladies was started by the Begum of Bhopal in 1915. She recommended the recognition of political Muslim women, so that British could agree and recognize the rights of women. After the death of Bi Amma, Begum Shahnawaz presented women rights at international level in 1931. In 1940, women were working for national liberation in Muslim league under the guidance of Quaid –I_ Azam and his sister.

Women Empowerment Idea at Local Level
The women of Pakistan don’t enjoy their fundamental rights. There are those female who are unaware of the rudimentary rights. Women in our society play an important role for socio-political development. Our society is influenced by feudalism and culture bondage. Unawareness of these basic rights slows down socio-political progress. The research can highlight the effect of feudalism and culture boundaries over women empowerment. After the emergence of Pakistan women’s struggle entered in new phase, the social and welfare activities were focused by women specially rehabilitation of refugees who were migrated from India.

Anjuman-e-Himayat-I-Islam and YWCA hospital welfare societies were working for the welfare of women. All Pakistan women’s association (APWA) was founded in 1949 by Begum Liaqat Ali khan. Soon many voluntary welfare agencies participated in this struggle, the Child welfare (1957) Blind welfare (1957) The Conference Social Work (1956). Begum Shah Nawaz and Begum Shaista Ikram-ullah were first Representative women in Pakistan’s constituent assembly. Shariat law 1948 was enforced and women became inheritors of property. Special seats were in legislature were allocated to women in 1956 constitution. In 1960s, the women were legally protected. Family laws, ordinance 1961, the West Pakistan family court Act 1964, Social welfare was established in 1964 (Hafeez, s. 1981). The impact women’s empowerment in the Lahore district of Pakistan, household decisions: child related, health, social mobility, economic and major household purchase decisions was specifically designed and implemented to explore the link between women’s empowerment and microcredit (Asim, 2009)

Significance of the Research Article
Women are the most important part of our society, they are more than 50% of our society, but history shows that majority of the women has no right to take part in decision making. This study was conducted to highlight the reasons and strategies for women empowerment. So its results will be highly beneficial for increasing the role of women in decisions making, which in turn increase the stability of the country. As women produce and guide the generation from the birth.

Methodology

Strategy
Mixed methods approach has been used to conduct this research study. It is concerned to use secondary sources to require document data which was collect and analyzed to answer the research questions. Data was obtained from following sources.

A. For discipline of international books are obtained.

Sampling 110 working women, 110 household women and 50 politician women comprises of 250 were selected through simple random sampling technique as a sample for this research study. (N # 250)

Research Instruments/Tools
The documentary analysis was identifying the problems and range and area through text books.

Data Analysis
Data Analysis of demographic characters has been done. And it is discussed in following table in detail.

Document Analysis of Women in Pakistan Political Perspective – An Overview

Women don’t get their legal right since the creation of Pakistan. For Pakistan, Fatima Jinnah role can be neglected. Rana Liqat Ali Khan who was founded of Apwa in 1949 (All Pakistan women Association) she was the wife of Liqat Ali Khan. . Pakistan first legislature assembly Begum Jahan Ara, Shah Nawaz and Begum Shaista Iqram-ullah were there members were best known women who were upper-class political family. In 1956 and Ordinance 1961 and 1962 accepted rights of women. The Bhutto era is the time when women rights and their status can be recognized. Political parties could no more neglect women and had to formally introduce women's wings in their parties. Dynamic young woman Benazir Bhutto (also known as Daughter of Democracy) despite her young age, she concentrated with full devotion to restore democracy in the country. Pervez Musarraf has given a lot of seats to women in legislature assembly.

Qualitative Data Analyses

Theme 1

Meaning of Women Empowerment

Majority of the respondent responded that, Women empowerment is concerned. It has broad sense it means to provide liberty, human right and power of making decision. It has many ideologies it is considered that women empowering means to have liberty in fashion. But it is the negative aspect of the women empowerment.

Theme 2

The Complex Status of Females

Female are not given a right of property inheritance and she doesn’t have the right of marriages. She can’t deny from this duty. She doesn’t have their own home where she could live with her own wish desires. First house is parents’ house and second one is husband’s house where the status is just the servant. She lives with the same circumstances till the children grow up and this point she would get some rights and she participated in taking the decision of children marriage but this is also the house of children. Her home is in the graveyard.

Theme 3

Male Dominating Society

Women don’t have empower and snatch the right by male dominant. Rights of property, rights of husband’s earning, ‘Nannafkai’ (maintenance for food and clothes), children expenses are not provided. There are no rights of making decision just taking the consultation from the women. After the death of husband a women can take decision for her family. 20% rights are given but 80% rights are snatched in the shape of male dominant society, tribal and feudal society, lack of awareness, poverty, lack of education, superiority complex of man.

Theme 4

No Rights for Women in Rural Area As Compare To Urban Woman

Rural women don’t have basic right and don’t have awareness. Their lives are just like animal’s life. Household ladies have having fewer powers as compared to the professional ladies. Some widow women can take decision due to her husband death in her family matters.

Theme 5

Cruelty with Females

If women speak about their rights then acids are thrown upon them and sometimes speak about their loss character, sometime the women are killed by the name of honor.

Theme 6

Proper Education Brings Positive Change

Some people think that male dominance could be control through proper education, awareness and better nourishment. Then mind of male could be changed. Change would come through education. Women should get education and skills. She earns money and participate economic growth of home and national effort then confidence come. Moral chapter should be taught than great impact come on society’s ideas.

Theme 7

Role of Media Bringing Revolution

By the passage of time women are going more empowering through media. Society and people is the major hurdle for empowering women. When girls are immature they are not aware by her rights gradually and slowly she is grown up a lady then she is awarded about her rights. Strong and educated women can change the mentality of male by her good behavior.
Theme 8
Old Tradition and Cultural Dominancy In The Society
Pakistani male have limited thoughts because of their culture, wrong values of religion, traditions and old ideas. Women are deprived from education, political activities, having good jobs, higher education, strangle hold of society ideas which damage the mentally and physically health of women.

Theme 9
Females Participation in Economic Development
Few women participated in politics and they come for the sack of male benefit. If women are on job she is doctor, teacher, accountant, professor data entry operator. They earn money and help the husband responsibility and economic growth but in our society she is not respected even at home she is consider as a making money maker machine and she should kept at home for sake of money otherwise there is no respect for a wife. She has double responsibility. But these efforts are not recognized and given lots of blames. Mentally tortured women are working day and night with the light of hope.

Theme 10
Female Acceptance, Based on Their Adjustment
Some women accept the atmosphere where she has been nourished with mentally and physically and full of torture such women are accepted in society. They keep it as her luck. She has taken the responsibility of children. Some of them want to deny fulfilling the requirements of husband and in-laws work. They are thrown outside with divorce. If rights are required then punishment is given by the male.

Theme 11
Feudalism and Tribal Society
Women don’t get their right due to feudal impact on rural society of Pakistan .and in Pakistan some tribal chief decide the case of murder and give women for the revenge of murder.it is called in Pakistan’s culture ‘VANI’
Theme 12
Strong Stranglehold of Cultural Barrier
Pakistan’s culture is also strong barriers for the developments of women empowerment. In Pakistan women consider second class of human being. And their due rights are not provided.

Discussion
The data collected from the research made it clear /obvious that mostly the qualified women who played an essential role in their respective fields or organization were rather empowered. They monetarily bolster their family; strengthening exchanged their comprehension to handle their household issues, the most ideal way imaginable. They demonstrate to have judicious approach with respect to financial undertakings which assists their male heads in fruitful example of life. Urban women are provided, the opportunities of better health care, schooling (keeping in view the modern standards) and entertainment for their youngsters. The children under the supervision of these empowered women tend to be confident and well mannered, but the rural women are not as empowered as urban women.

The finding of research states that these women do not practice any gender difference/biasness among children. Results also showed that where the women were practicing the empowerment, they were playing a role in raising the socio-economic status of women, however, does not affect/harm the existing structure of society.
